

Final Four Prediction

So I think in the Butler vs. UCONN game that UCONN will win because Butler has more fouls per game than UCONN does which means more shots for UCONN which means more points but then again they both have the same amount of turnovers per game which then again means that they both have more shots per game and UCONN usually has more points per game than Butler does so that is also another thing to look at and Butler has less teammates scoring points per game and less 3 points per game and that is why I think that UCONN will win in the Final Four Matchup